CITY TRUSTEES

Electric Lighting Project on Fourth, Brand, and Glendale Avenue is the Principal Topic

All members present. After reading of the minutes, the board resolved itself into committee of the whole to enable a representative of the concrete pillar concern to present his plan for the substitution of concrete pillars for iron in the proposed new lighting system on Fourth street, Brand boulevard and Glendale avenue. His principal claims were for the much longer life of the concrete as compared with iron and less cost. Mr. Anderson from the standpoint of a property owner in the proposed district, expressed himself as in favor of giving the proposition consideration. The trustees then adjourned as a committee to take the matter up later. The tax collector reported $1948.54 collected during the week, a total of $7952.42 to date. A communication was read from the tax collector in reference to a lot sold for taxes last year in error; and on motion the sale was cancelled, the amount involved to be collected from the ex-collector. A communication was read from the Carr company by M. A. King demanding return of certain money claimed to be overpaid on account of the opening of Sixth street. A communication was read from the building inspector asking for an assistant in his office on account of increased work caused by enlargement of city boundaries.

On motion of Mr. Coker an assistant was allowed the building inspector for month of December. A communication numerously signed by residents on Sixth street between Glendale avenue and Central, asking for a sidewalk to be constructed, was referred to city engineer.

The board at this point reverted to the ornamental lighting work on Fourth street and other business streets and heard the manager of the lighting department on the subject of concrete versus iron. The difference in cost is practically $12.50. The fact was developed that the law governing this improvement requires payment within thirty days from the time that the work is ordered in. Several Fourth street property owners expressed their surprise at this requirement and protested against the requirement. The chairman announced that unfortunately the time for protest had passed. The motion to adopt the plans of the manager of the lighting department in regard to the ornamental lighting work on these streets was on motion of Mr. Coker adopted. Debate ensued on the proposition and on motion of Mr. Coker again the question was reconsidered. It was debated at considerable length.

The manager of the lighting department stated that the work could be done under the Vrooman act, but would cost from 20 to 25 per cent more. The property owners had been told that it was a "cash" proposition but it seemed that they did not generally understand that this meant payment in advance. This matter was debated at great length, trustees and property owners alike contributing their ideas on the subject. The chairman made the point that the present meeting could be adjourned until Saturday evening, and in the meantime the ideas of the property owners could be ascertained. On motion the matter was laid on the table. A motion then prevailed that when adjournment was made it be until Saturday afternoon at 3:30.

An ordinance establishing the grade of Sixth street was read first and second times. An ordinance providing for the opening and widening of a portion of Brand boulevard passed third reading.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

The chamber of commerce held its regular meeting at Odd Fellows hall last Friday evening. Advance copies of the Arrowhead containing the write-up of Glendale were on hand and were discussed, the six-page illustrated article in that publication descriptive of Glendale giving general satisfaction. An invitation was read requesting a delegation from the chamber to attend the meeting of citizens to be held at the Alexandria hotel, Los Angeles, to boost the Land and Products Exhibition to be held in March and on motion the president, secretary and members of the executive committee were directed to attend. The adoption of new by-laws was discussed and the subject referred to the executive committee to bring in a report at the next meeting.

A reporter of the NEWS called recently at the Home Dairy conducted by James Connor, on Park street and found that establishment growing as such things have a way of doing in this climate. Mr. Connor has an establishment now consisting of 28 cows and a number of young animals "coming on." He is the possessor of two "Brown Swiss" cows and some of their progeny, a breed that is rather scarce in California but which has good claims upon stock fanciers for sterling qualities which their admirers claim are not possessed to such an extent by other breeds. Mr. Connor has a large tract of productive land which furnishes a large proportion of the food required for his rapidly increasing herd.

A MYSTERIOUS FIRE.

Last Saturday morning between 8 and 9 o'clock the house on Central avenue between Second and Third, occupied by Mr. Russell, of the Russell Grocery Co., caught fire and in a short time was completely destroyed. So rapidly did the flames spread that the fire department, although responding promptly, was unable to do anything. Considerable of the household goods of Mr. Russell was destroyed.

The origin of the fire is supposed to have been incendiary, as Mr. Russell says that his property had been threatened and he believes attempts have previously been made to set it on fire. It was the Wednesday night previously, as related elsewhere, that a man was scared away after being found in the kitchen. How the fire could have been started at that time of day without the incendiary being seen is a mystery. Mrs. Russell was sick in bed at the time. The house belonged to Oliver Logan, Jr., and was insured for $1200, about half of its value.

Mrs. Menzo Williams and Miss Emma Williams of North Central avenue were Glendale guests Friday night at the dance given by the Delta Delta at Tonet Square.

THE TUESDAY AFTERNOON CLUB NOTES.

"Old Maids' Convention."

The Tuesday Afternoon Club entertained the husbands and friends of the club with the one act play, "The Old Maids' Convention," Tuesday evening at the Country Club house.

The play was put on by the literary section of which Mrs. James Gee, and Mrs. Carl Mertens are chairmen. Those taking the cast of characters were Mesdames Gee, Church, McNutt, Foss, Witt, Mertens, Rankin, Newcomb, Bush, Roberts, Shropshire, Grosvenor, Miss Alice Frank and Mr. Carl Mertens.

Others assisting in the program were Mrs. W. E. Evans, reading; Miss Emma Pulliam, dancing; Miss Payne, violin solo, Miss Dodge, piano solo; Miss Pearl Harrison vocal solos and Professor Krinbill, accompanist.

The old maids were gowned in convention dress and made a quaint picture calling to mind the days of "long ago."

Mrs. Joseph Shropshire wore a pronounced green gown with demitrain and panniers, a wonderful bonnet, and dear little cork screw curls about her face. Mrs. Roberts wore a bonnet whose crown dated back many years, her tight fitting basque and quaint old skirt made her a typical old maid. Mrs. Witt took occasional stitches in an afghan as the convention proceeded. Her ear rings and watch and use of beauty powder were impressive. Mrs. Church wore a handsome gown of long ago silk with rare embroidery for collar and sleeves, and a bonnet of original design. Mrs. Gee wore a bonnet with true leathers, a gown with pink ruffles and overskirt, and a red wrap. Other unique articles of dress worn by the ladies were a plush dolman, a velvet basque, a lavender gown of the Grecian bend style, and another of the flowing sleeve.

Many thanks are due Mrs. Mertens for impressing her husband, Mr. Carl Mertens, into the part, Professor Pinkerton. Mr. Mertens read his testimonials, administered elixir, and cranked up his transform(h)er as if he were following his real profession. Refreshments were served by the hospitality committee, Mesdames Ward, Hunt, Goode, Burket, Russell, Addison, Rowe and Miss Frank. Much credit must be given Mrs. Church, Mrs. Henry Ward, Mrs. Martens and Mrs. Gee for the success of the evening.

THE ARROWHEAD.

The number of the Arrowhead containing the Chamber of Commerce write-up of Glendale, has come to hand. The front cover is ornamented with a bridseye view of Glendale which makes a beautiful picture. There are a number of fine views specially taken for the article by Mr. Bott and they are selected with good judgment, well calculated to give a correct idea to strangers of the beauty and variety of our city and its surroundings. The reading matter is very comprehensive and the distribution throughout the East by the Salt Lake company's representatives in large numbers should prove of great benefit to this section.

THE SCHOOLS

West Glendale and Glendale Grammar School Districts to be Consolidated—Meeting Called for Saturday Night

The question as to grammar school districts in this section acme up before Supt. Keppel Tuesday last and was threshed out by the various sections represented. There was a strong committee present with a numerously signed petition for the establishment of a new district to be comprised of all territory north of the wash and a portion of the West Glendale district west of Central avenue. This project was backed by Casa Verdugo people who wished a separate district. Opposed to this was the committee representing a majority of the heads of families in both the Glendale and the West Glendale districts with petitions to which the signatures of said heads of families were attached asking for a consolidation of the two districts. Mr. Stanton and others were present from Casa Verdugo while Mr. O. A. Lane and others represented the consolidationists. It was known that Mr. Keppel favors on general principles the consolidation idea which means stronger districts and relatively better schools, but his decision when confronted by the majority petition could not have been otherwise than it was, to recommend the consolidation of Glendale and West Glendale into one district. The matter now goes to the supervisors, the action of which body will no doubt be in accordance with the superintendent's recommendation.

The trustees have entered into a contract with T. H. Addison in accordance with his bid of $23,576.50 for the construction of the intermediate school building on Third street, Glendale. The meeting to be held Saturday evening is expected to confirm this action and also to rescind former instructions given in regard to the purchase of lots for school purposes at Louise and Doran, as the consolidation of the districts and the necessity of providing a school house for the Casa Verdugo section seems to do away with any necessity for a school building in the locality first selected. The consolidation of the districts will necessitate the appointment of a new board of trustees by Supt. Keppel. There is an understanding to the effect that one member of the new board will be from Casa Verdugo, probably another will come from West Glendale and a third from the neighborhood of Glendale avenue.

SCHOOL EXPENSES.

The call for a $9000 assessment on the Glendale grammar school district was accompanied, as required, by a budget showing the manner in which it was proposed to expend all moneys. This is as fololws:

Salaries, Fourth St. school	$ 5,650
Do, Sixth St. school	5,500

ATTEMPTED BURGLARIES THREE IN ONE WEEK.

Apparently a brace of housebreakers are working the Glendale territory but so far without profitable results. Wednesday night of last week Mr. Russell of the Russell Grocery Co., was out with Mrs. Russell until about 9:30 in the evening. When they entered their house on Orange street (since burned) a man brushed past Mrs. Russell as she entered the kitchen and made a quick escape from the door. Mr. Russell ran into another room for his revolver and as soon as he procured it ran out after the intruder. In the dim light he caught sight of a skulking form making good time down the alley and fired at him, but without effect. Mr. Russell thinks that the man he fired at was not the one who entered the house but his confederate on guard. The robber was evidently scared off before securing any booty. About 2 o'clock Sunday morning a call came in for an officer to go to Lomita and Central where some one had attempted to enter a house and had been scared away. An hour and a half later Officer Everett was called for and hurried down to Seventh street near Glendale. He found that some one had attempted to enter the house of Mrs. Richardson by climbing upon the coping, from which he had evidently tumbled when alarmed. A lady living next door who came out from Los Angeles with another lady on a late car, is quite sure that two men followed them from the city and believes that she was the object of the attempted robbery, as she happened to have considerable money in her possession at that time. No clues.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

The K. of P. hall was entirely filled last Sunday morning with a large and appreciative audience who assembled for the organization services of "The First Congregational Church of Glendale." An excellent program had been arranged. Beautiful solos were slung by Mrs. C. P. Sherman, Mr. Frank Raglan and Mrs. Geo. Melford. The offertory was a beautiful violin solo by Miss Maud Payne. The Scripture was read by Rev. F. W. Field, prayer was offered by Rev. C. S. Billings of Los Angeles. Rev. Alfred W. Hare of Eagle Rock preached a scholarly and inspiring sermon, taking for his subject "The church of the Living God."

Following this service the new church was formally organized. Those who were to form the charter membership occupied the front seats, the confession of faith, coevnant, by-laws and rules were read and adopted. The members then voted to organize themselves into the "First Congregational Church of Glandale."

Rev. E. H. Willisford who has been acting as pastor and who was formally elected to that position, then gave the right hand of fellowship to the new members, greeting each one personally with words of welcome. All who unite with the new church on before the time of the annual meeting, the second Wednesday in January, are to be considered as charter members. A number of people are expecting to soon unite with the church. A full quota of officers will be elected at the annual meeting; in the meantime the committee which has had charge of the affairs will care for all necessary business.

Sunday school will meet at 10:00 o'clock and at 11:00 Rev. E. H. Willisford will speak, subject, "A Handful of Corn."

Rev. C. S. Billings and Rev. H. P. Case of Los Angeles gave brief but helpful addresses at the organization service.

THE ORNAMENTAL LIGHTING PROJECT.

As developed at the trustees' meeting, Monday night, there is something of a hitch in the proceedings in regard to the ornamental lighting system to be installed on Fourth street, Brand Boulevard and Glendale avenue. The property owners who assented to the plan did not apparently understand that they must put up their assessment money before the completion of the work, or, according to the law, 30 days after proceedings begin.

As the work will not be completed before May, some of them are disposed to raise objections to the plan. Other details of the project do not seem to have been understood. For instance, the number of lights in a block will be increased from three to forty, as the plan is for four stands on each side of the block, each furnished with five lights. The maintenance of these extra lights will cost the city about $100 a month, payable out of the general fund. The offer of a Los Angeles company to furnish concrete pillars instead of the iron posts proposed in the plan outlined by Mr. Lynch of the light department, at a cost of approximately 20 per cent less, seems also to add an additional complication. When the trustees adjourned Monday evening, it was to meet this afternoon (Friday) and decide the matter, the property owners to be seen in the meantime, the matter explained and their wishes ascertained.

TO THE COUNTY JAIL FOR THIRTY DAYS.

At last Ervin Chatnam is taking a thirty-day rest in the county jail, having escaped that fate many times on account of his comparative harmlessness while on his many sprees. On Sunday, Officer Jim Everett took him in at the corner of Fifth and Adams, and (Glendale being jailless), putting handcuffs on him, left him in the firehouse, providing him a cot and making him as comfortable as possible. Monday morning early, Everett got up and went to the firehouse about seven o'clock to care for his prisoner. Instead of finding him there, he found a badly damaged brace of handcuffs, and the prisoner gone. Evidently he had received outside assistance, for the handcuffs had been struck a heavy blow, which the prisoner could not possibly have managed to do alone. The officer heard of his prisoner later in the orchards north of town, and, taking up the trail, had a hot chase after him, but Chatnam proved too foxy, striking across country and boarding an electric car. He was captured again Monday evening as he was attempting to get to his home, and brought before Recorder Whomes on a special call, who gave him a thirty-day sentence. The officer laments the loss of a fine pair of handcuffs, and would like to try another pair on the parties who turned his prisoner loose.

CHAPTER IV.

JOAN LACKLAND.

BY the second day of the north wester Sheldon was in collapse from his fever. It had taken an unfair advantage of his weak state, and, though it was only ordinary malarial fever, in forty-eight hours it had run him as low as ten days of fever would have done when he was in condition. But the dysentery had been swept away from Berande. A score of convalescents lingered in the hospital, but they were improving hourly. There had been but one more death—that of the man whose brother had wailed over him instead of brushing the flies away.

On the morning of the fourth day of his fever Sheldon lay on the veranda, gazing dimly out over the raging ocean. The wind was falling, but a mighty sea was still thundering in on Berande beach, the flying spray reaching in as far as the flagstaff mounds, the foaming wash creaming against the gateposts. He had taken thirty grains of quinine, and the drug was buzzing in his ears like a nest of hornets, making his hands and knees tremble and causing a sickening palpitation of the stomach. Once, opening his eyes, he saw what he took to be a hallucination. Not far out and coming in across the Jessie's anchorage he saw a whaleboat's nose thrust skyward on a smoky crest and disappear naturally, as an actual whaleboat's nose should disappear, as it slid down the back of the sea. He knew that no whaleboat should be out there, and he was quite certain no men in the Solomons were mad enough to be abroad in such a storm.

But the hallucination persisted. A minute later, chancing to open his eyes, he saw the whaleboat, full length, and saw right into it as it rose on the face of a wave. He saw six sweeps at work, and in the stern, clearly outlined against the overhanging wall of white, a man who stood erect, gigantic, swaying with his weight on the steering sweep. This he saw, and an eighth man who crouched in the bow and gazed shoreward. But what startled Sheldon was the sight of a woman in the sternsheets between the stroke oar and the steersman. A woman she was, for a braid of her hair was flying, and she was just in the act of recapturing it and stowing it away beneath a hat that for all the world was like his own "Baden-Powell."

The boat disappeared behind the wave and rose into view on the face of the following one. Again he looked into it. The men were dark skinned and larger than Solomon islanders, but the woman, he could plainly see, was white. Who she was and what she was doing there were thoughts that drifted vaguely through his consciousness. He was too sick to be vitally interested, and, besides, he had a half feeling that it was all a dream.

"Good boatmen," was Sheldon's verdict, as he saw the boat leap forward on the face of a huge breaker, the sweeps flying swiftly to keep her on that front of the moving mountain of water that raced madly for the shore.

It was well done. Part full of water, the boat was flung upon the beach, the men springing out and dragging its nose to the gate posts. Sheldon had called vainly to the house boys, who, at the moment, were dosing the remaining patients in the hospital. He knew he was unable to rise up and go down the path to meet the newcomers, so he lay back in the steamer chair and watched for ages while they caved for the boat. The woman stood to one side, her hand resting on the gate. Occasional surges of sea water washed over her feet, which he could see were incased in rubber sea boots. She scrutinized the house sharply, and for some time she gazed at him steadily. At last, speaking to two of the men, who turned and followed her, she started up the path.

Sheldon attempted to rise, got half up out of his chair and fell back helplessly. He was surprised at the size of the men, who loomed like giants behind her. Both were six footers, and they were heavy in proportion. He had never seen islanders like them. They were not black, like the Solomon islanders, but light brown, and their features were larger, more regular and even handsome.

The woman—or girl, rather, he decided—walked along the veranda toward him. The two men waited at the head of the steps watching curiously. The girl was angry. He could see that. Her gray eyes were flashing and her lips were quivering. That she had a temper was his thought. But the eyes were striking. He decided that they were not gray after all, or, at least, not all gray. They were large and wide apart and they looked at him from under level brows. Her face was cameolike, so clear cut was it. There were other striking things about her—the cowboy Stetson hat, the heavy braids of brown hair and the long barreled 38 Colt's revolver that hung in its holster on her hip.

"Pretty hospitality, I must say," was her greeting, "letting strangers sink or swim in your front yard."

"I—I beg your pardon," he stammered, by a supreme effort dragging himself to his feet.

His legs wabbled under him, and with a suffocating sensation he began sinking to the floor. He was aware of a feeble gratification as he saw solicitude leap into her eyes; then blackness smote him, and at the moment of smiting him his thought was that at last and for the first time in his life he had fainted.

The ringing of the big bell aroused him. He opened his eyes and found that he was on the couch indoors. A glance at the clock told him that it was 6, and from the direction the sun's rays streamed into the room he knew that it was morning. At first he puzzled over something untoward he was sure had happened. Then, on the wall, he saw a Stetson hat hanging and beneath it a full cartridge belt and a long barrelled 38 Colt's revolver.

The slender girth of the belt told its feminine story, and he remembered the whaleboat of the day before and the gray eyes that flashed beneath the level brows. She, it must have been, who had just rung the bell. The cares of the plantation rushed upon him, and he sat up in bed, clutching at the wall for support as the mosquito screen lurched dizzily around him. He was still sitting there, holding on, with eyes closed, striving to master his giddiness, when he heard her voice.

"You'll lie right down again, sir," she said.

It was sharply imperative, a voice used to command. At the same time one hand pressed him back toward the pillow while the other caught him from behind and eased him down.

"You've been unconscious for twenty-four hours now," she went on, "and I have taken charge. When I say the word you'll get up, and not until then. Now, what medicine do you take—quinine? Here are ten grains. That's right. You'll make a good patient."

"My dear madam," he began.

"You mustn't speak," she interrupted, "that is, in protest. Otherwise you can talk."

"But the plantation—"

"A dead man is of no use on a plantation. Don't you want to know about me? My vanity is hurt. Here am I, just through my first shipwreck, and here are you, not the least bit curious, talking about your miserable plantation. Can't you see that I am just bursting to tell somebody, anybody, about my shipwreck?"

He smiled. It was the first time in weeks. And he smiled, not so much at what she said, as at the way she said it—the whimsical expression on her face, the laughter in her eyes, and the several tiny lines of humor that drew in at the corners. He was curiously wondering as to what her age was, as he said aloud:

"Yes, tell me, please."

"That I will not—not now," she retorted, with a toss of the head. "I'll find somebody to tell my story to who does not have to be asked. Also, I want information. I managed to find out what time to ring the bell to turn the hands to. And that is about all. I don't understand the ridiculous speech of your people. What time do they knock off?"

"At 11—go on again at 1."

"That will do, thank you. And now, where do you keep the key to the provisions? I want to feed my men."

"Your men!" he gasped. "On tinned goods! No, no. Let them go out and eat with my boys."

Her eyes flashed as on the day before, and he saw again the imperative expression on her face.

"That I won't. My men are men. I've been out to your miserable barracks and watched them eat. Faugh! Potatoes! Nothing but potatoes. No salt. Nothing. Only potatoes. I may have been mistaken, but I thought I understood them to say that that was all they ever got to eat. Two meals a day and every day in the week.

He nodded.

"Well, my men wouldn't stand for that a single day, much less a whole week. Where is the key?"

"Hanging on that clothes hook under the clock."

He gave in easily enough, but as she was reaching down the key she heard him say:

"Fancy niggers and tinned provisions."

This time she really was angry. The blood was in her cheeks as she turned on him.

"My men are not niggers. The sooner you understand that the better for our acquaintance. As for the tinned goods, I'll pay for all they eat. Please don't worry about that. Worry is not good for you in your condition. And I won't stay any longer than I have to—just long enough to get you on your feet and not go away with the feeling of having deserted a white man."

"You're American, aren't you?" he asked quietly.

The question disconcerted her for the moment.

"Yes," she vouchsafed, with a defiant look. "Why?"

"Nothing. I merely thought so."

"Anything further?"

He shook his head.

"Why?" he asked.

"Oh, nothing. I thought you might have something pleasant to say."

"My name is Sheldon, David Sheldon," he said, with direct relevance, holding out a thin hand.

Her hand started out impulsively, then checked.

"My name is Lackland, Joan Lackland." The hand went out. "And let us be friends."

"It could not be otherwise"— he began lamely.

"And I can feed my men all the tinned goods I want?" she rushed on.

"Till the cows come home," he answered, attempting her own lightness, then adding, "that is, to Berande. You see we don't have any cows at Berande."

She fixed him coldly with her eyes.

"Is that a joke?" she demanded.

"I really don't know—I—I thought it was, but then, you see, I'm sick."

"You're English, aren't you?" was her next query.

"Now that's too much, even for a sick man," he cried. "You know well enough that I am."

"Oh," she said absently. "Then you are?"

He frowned, tightened his lips, then burst into laughter, in which she joined.

"It's my own fault," he confessed. "I shouldn't have baited you. I'll be careful in the future."

"In the meantime go on laughing and I'll see about breakfast. Is there anything you would fancy?"

He shook his head.

"It will do you good to eat something. Your fever has burned out and you are merely weak. Wait a moment."

She hurried out of the room in the direction of the kitchen, tripped at the door in a pair of sandals several times too large for her feet and disappeared in rosy confusion.

"By Jove, those are my sandals," he thought to himself. "The girl hasn't a thing to wear except what she landed on the beach in and she certainly landed in sea boots."

(To be continued)

She Was Biased.

Shark Stories.

A shark is very tenacious of life, and Dr. Gunther, the ichthyologist, has pointed out in one of his contributions to the literature of his subject that "wounds affect fishes generally much less than higher vertebrates. A Greenland shark continues to feed while his head is pierced by a harpoon or by a knife as long as the nervous center is not touched."

A Norwegian antarctic explorer, H. J. Bull, gives a startling word picture of a shark's tenacity of life. This man-eater was caught at the Iceland cod fishery. His liver, heart and internal arrangements were removed so as to put a period to his career, and the thus mutilated body was then cast into the sea. He simply gave a leisurely wag of his tail and swam rapidly out of sight.—Chambers' Journal.

Cause For Thanks.

The Rev. Moses Jackson was holding services in a small country church and at the conclusion loaned his hat to a member, as was the custom, to pass around for contributions. The brother canvassed the congregation thoroughly, but the hat was returned empty to its owner.

Br'er Jackson looked into it, turned it upside down and shook it vigorously, but not a copper was forthcoming. He sniffed audibly.

"Bredern," he said, "I sho' is glad dat I got mah hat back again."—Ladies' Home Journal.

Wagner's Nerve.

Wagner, the eminent composer, had the nerves of an acrobat. Once he was climbing a precipitous mountain in company with a young friend. When some distance up and walking along a narrow ledge the companion, who was following, called out that he was growing giddy. Wagner turned around on the ledge of rock, caught his friend and passed him between the rock and himself to the front.

Brain Work.

"Does your husband help you much around the house?" asked the neighbor.

"Well," replied the tired looking woman, "Josiah's work is mostly brain work. He keeps right busy thinkin' up ways for me to economize."—Washington Star.

Real Angel of Death.

Most of us are familiar with the beautiful and artistic conception of French wherein a young sculptor who is plying his magic chisel upon a block of stone and summoning from the snowy depths of the marble the dream face of his soul's ideal is gently touched by the wistful eyed angel of death and the skillful arm forever stayed. The whole creation is marvelously beautiful, and the world is better for its birth. Nevertheless it is allegorical and misleading. The real angel of death in the case of the thin faced sculptor was not a sad visaged maiden of classical profile. In all probability it was a minute, rodlike organism floating amid motes of dust and known to scientists as the "bacillus tuberculosis." The writer does not want to be a shatterer of ideals, but the sooner such poetic notions of death are done away with and the mass of the people educated in a common sense way to the dangers of dust and bacteria the better it will be for humanity in general.—J. G. Ogden in Popular Mechanics.

A Wonderful Machine.

The machine by which railway tickets are printed gives an exhibition of intelligence or what looks very like it. Railway tickets are not, as might be supposed, printed in large sheets and afterward cut up. The cardboard is cut into tickets first and printed one by one afterward. The little blank cards are put in a pile in a kind of perpendicular spout, and the machine slips a bit of metal underneath the bottom of the spout and pushes out the lowest ticket in the pile to be printed and consecutively numbered. It is of no use trying to print a bad ticket. The machine finds out an imperfect blank in an instant and flatly refuses to have anything to do with it. Tear off the corner of one of the bits of card and put it into the spout with the others in order to see what will happen and it refuses to budge again until somebody comes and removes the impostor. Pull out the damaged ticket and the mechanism will set briskly to work again.—Philadelphia Record.

When Women Carved.

In George I.'s reign it was the bounden duty of the mistress of a country house to carve for her guests. Etiquette demanded it of her, and no one might relieve her of her arduous task, not even the master. To the latter was only assigned the easy labor of passing the bottle and looking on while each joint was placed in turn before his wife or daughter, as the case might be, and by her rapidly manipulated. Carving became one of the branches of a good feminine education, and there were professional carving masters who taught the young ladies. Lady Mary Wortley Montagu took lessons in the art three times a week and on her father's public days made a practice of having her own dinner an hour or two beforehand. A guest who did not receive his portion from his hostess' own fair hands would have considered himself much aggrieved.—London Spectator.

Strict German Discipline.

"German discipline in the army is the strictest of any nation in the world," said a man who has experienced it. "Every German boy must serve a definite period in the army. He can buy his way out in six months if he has money, but the richest must serve that period. The first thing told a recruit when he enters the barracks is that he does not know how to walk. That information startles him, because naturally he believes he had learned to walk years before. A drillmaster gets him in a courtyard, and for a week, often a month, the poor recruit is drilled in walking alone. Then he gets another course, and the longest practice marches of a regiment are almost equal to the stress of actual war. It makes thorough soldiers of the boys."—New York Tribune.

Animals Under Water.

The ability of a beaver to remain under water for a long time is not really so tough a problem as it looks. When the lake or pond is frozen over a beaver will come to the under surface of the ice and expel his breath so that it will form a wide, flat bubble. The air, coming in contact with the ice and water, is purified, and the beaver breathes it again. This operation he can repeat several times. The otter and muskrat do the same thing.

Quicksand.

Quicksand differs from beach sand other sand in that the individual grains have become worn by water or wind until the normal facets and angles have been abraded and each grain has become more or less spherical. The coefficient of friction is thus reduced to the minimum and the bed does not pack when dry and when wet behaves like a fluid. The depth of quicksand is conditioned by the depth of the hardpan or other compact material upon which the sand rests. In building operations on the lower end of Manhattan island quicksands are encountered more than 100 feet in depth. Near Pueblo, Colo., in 1875, a train was drawn by a derailed locomotive into a quicksand and was swallowed up beyond discovery, although probed for to a depth of fifty feet. In certain smaller littoral quicksands, bodies which have been engulfed are in time brought to the surface at the edge of the shivering sands. This is due to the structure of the containing bowl of rock which permits a sluggish circulatory movement of the plastic mass.

Had Enough of Law.

A gentleman who is now general superintendent of a railroad began life by trying to practice law in a Missouri village. One of his first cases was before his father, who was a justice of the peace. After a stormy wrangle between the young attorney and his adversary the old gentleman decided the case against his son's client. The young man gave vent to some expressions of indignation, gathered up his books and started to leave the room. His father pushed his specs on to his forehead and began mildly to lecture him, saying:

"Young man, do you expect to make your living practicing law?"

The son, who had by this time reached the door, shouted back as he retired from the field:

"Not before such a blamed fool court as this."

He abandoned the law and engaged in railroading with great success.—Green Bag.

A Blot on Its Record.

The evil of adulteration has its humorous phases, one of which is brought out in "Science and the Criminal," a book by C. Ainsworth Mitchell, the head of the inspection bureau of Scotland Yard.

An eminent English counsel was cross examining Mr. Siemens, the electrical expert, in a case in which there was a dispute about the working of some electrical plant.

"I think, Mr. Siemens, that you have had a long experience with electricity."

"That is so."

"Well, now, I want you to tell me whether in the course of all your experience you have ever known electricity to be adulterated?"

"In only one instance."

"When was that?" eagerly asked counsel.

"In the phrase 'greased lightning,'" the expert replied demurely.

A Difference of Opinion.

On one occasion Bishop G. of Atlanta purposed leaving home on a Saturday night train, arriving in Savannah the next morning in time to fill a pulpit engagement. His brother, much his senior, old fashioned in his notions of Sabbath observance, hearing of the proposed Sunday trip, took him to task about it. The bishop explained that he was staying home as long as possible to take care of his children, who had been ill all the week, so that his wife would be in better shape to nurse them during his absence. "You see, Allen," the explanation ended, "it's a case of the ox in the ditch."

"Ox in the ditch nothing!" snorted his brother in disgust. "It's a case of a donkey in a sleeping car!"—St. Louis Republic.

Had a Full Course.

The sign in front of a Harlem restaurant attracted the eye of a farmer, and he went in. He had a raw, a fry, a stew, a pan roast, a broil and a steam on toast. When he got through he laid a quarter on the cashier's desk, only to be told that he was shy a dollar and a quarter.

"No, by jing," said the farmer. "A quarter's right. Doesn't your sign say, 'Oysters In Every Style For Twenty-five Cents?'"—Lippincott's.

A GREAT SPECULATION.

The following is going the rounds of the papers. We commend to to our capitalists:

Dear Friend:

Knowing that you have had some interest in the fur business, I take this opportunity of presenting you with what seems to me a most wonderful business proposition, and in which, no doubt, you will take a lively interest, and perhaps wire me to the amount of stock you wish to subscribe toward the foundation of a company.

The object of this company is to operate a large ranch in or near South Pasadena, where land can be purchased cheaply for the purpose. To start with, we will collect about, say 100,000 cats. Each cat will average 12 kittens per year. The skins run from 10 cents each for the white ones to 75 cents for the pure black; this will give us 12,000,000 skins a year to sell at an average of 30 cents apiece, making our revenue about $10,000 per day, gross.

A man can skin 50 cats per day for $2.00. It will take 100 men to operate the ranch, and therefore, the net profits will be $9800 per day.

We will feed the cats on rats, and will start a rat ranch next door. The rats multiply four times as fast as the cats.

If we start with 1,000,000 rats, we will have, therefore, 4 rats per day for each cat, which is plenty.

Now, then, we will feed the rats on the carcasses of the cats from which the skins have been taken, giving each rat one-fourth of a cat, which is plenty.

It will thus be seen that the business will be self-supporting and automatic all the way through. The cats will eat the rats, the rats will eat the cats, and we will get the skins.

Awaiting your prompt reply, and trusting that you will appreciate the opportunity I am giving, which will get you rich quick, I remain, etc.

What man prize most is a privilege, even if it be that of chief mourner at a funeral.—Lowell.

Manitoba has been trying government ownership without success up to the present. The telephone service has brought about a deficit of $150,000 during the year, and a deterioration in the service.

Thomas A. Edison is an advocate of fewer hours of sleep. He says that for thirty years he averaged four hours a night and many of his assistants did the same. Fortunate for the world that the eight-hour law did not get him!

Madame Curie has been awarded the Nobel prize this year for chemistry. This is the second time she has been so honored, having been awarded the prize in 1903 jointly with her husband. The prize amounts in value to $40,000.

Los Angeles votes next Tuesday not only for municipal officers but also on the question of prohibiting the manufacture, sale or giving away of strong drink. Should the city wake up and find itself "dry" on Wednesday morning, the women may certainly be credited with that result.

Next Sunday the 125th anniversary of the founding of the Mission of Santa Barbara will be celebrated in a manner befitting the occasion. The mission church at Santa Barbara is the best preserved of the many missions along the coast and is still occupied by Franciscan fathers.

Poor old Mexico! Her people have sent to a foreign land in disgrace the only great man she has produced in a generation, the one strong ruler who has kept that country in a place among the nations, and now the land is given up to revolutions and all their dreadful accompanying details of violence. The people of the United States will have good cause to be thankful if peace over the border is ever secured without the intervention of this government.

Is it not about time that Glendale have an ordinance requiring property owners to clean up parkways and vacant lots? It is not equitable that this work be paid for out of the general fund. It is true that there seems to be some doubt as to the legality of such legislation, but it is also a fact that other municipalities have ordinances of this kind. They will at least work until protesting property owners enjoin the enforcement of the law.

The law permitting school trustees, subject to the approval of the county superintendent, to levy taxes for school maintenance up to the limit of 30 cents on every $100 of assessed valuation, and for building purposes up to 70 cents on the same basis, has been in operation two years. County Supt. Keppel favors the law very strongly and is quoted as saying that its success is proved by the fact that two years ago there were only 15 such tax levies in the county, last year under the new law there were 47.

The holiday season is upon us and will be passed before we realize that it is here. Everyone who would avoid the wear and tear of eleventh hour shopping should make a round of the local stores now. It is surprising to find how nearly our merchants come to keeping everything that the giver of presents may require. Among other things remember the things that the local print shop can do for you. A subscription to the NEWS sent to a distant friend will save the worry of frequent letter writing.

AN ECHO OF MISPLACED SYMPATHY.

John Hayes Hammond, the American engineer who fell into the hands of the Boers in their alleged republic in South Africa after the Jameson raid and had a narrow escape from being hanged, has been released by time from a promise not to talk about the matter for a certain period, and says that the world need waste no sympathy on "Oom Paul," as Krueger was called by his admirers. This advice comes too late to be of any service. The people of the United States did waste a lot of sympathy on the president of the Transvaal republic during the English-Boer war. That hoary old maxim which being translated means, "The voice of the people is the voice of God," never was more thoroughly discredited than when the people of this country by a large majority favored the Boers as against the English. It was a clear illustration of the fact that the average man's sympathy is generally given to the under-dog when he does not know the cause of the trouble; he judges by his heart in the first place, even though the decision be reversed by the head afterwards.

THE EXTRA SESSION.

The extraordinary session of the state legislature called by the governor is now in session at Sacramento. The call for the session embraces twenty-six topics to be dealt with. The one that will probably cause the most trouble is the apportionment bill. Whatever may be the final outcome of this measure it seems to be a foregone conclusion that San Francisco will have its representation in the legislature decreased while that of Los Angeles will be about doubled. Naturally a warm contest may be expected over this matter. San Francisco has been so long in the saddle at Sacramento that it will be very galling for that city to get off and walk behind the lead of the young giant of the South. Some doubts are expressed as to the ability of the legislators to get through so much work in such a short time, Jan. 1st being the limit that the governor has given the statesmen for adjournment. It is hardly necessary to worry about that, however. The present legislature is adept in taking program and when the bills come in from the governor's office with the cabalistic "O. K." on them, there will be but little time lost in putting them through the mill. The apportionment bill may lack the O. K., however, as his excellency will not want to umpire that fight, hence there is trouble in the air.

A SPECIFIC FOR DYSPEPSIA.

A writer in the British Medical Journal asserts that Cato believed the lowly cabbage to be a sovereign remedy for every hurt and disease. He does not think it worth while to mention that Cato is dead, although the best authorities believe that he is. Some historians say that he committed suicide, but there is a possibility that this is an invention designed to conceal the fact that at a critical moment Cato found, as many another theorist has, that there are specifics which sometimes fail to specify. A French physician thinks that he has discovered in the potato a specific for diabetis; indeed, there is a school of physicians in France who claim to find in the vegetable world a specific for every known disease and they have gone so far as to have them labeled.

The plain, every day carrot of commerce is said to be a sure cure for dyspepsia. Dr. Wiley ought to know this; it is one of the most important discoveries of the age, and if universally applied promises to regenerate the world. Not many people stop to philosophize over the world-wide prevalence of dyspepsia and fewer still understand the worse than deadly effect of this fell disease.

Americans are a nation of dyspeptics; we eat pie, get the dyspepsia and then turn mugwump, insurgent, socialist, anarchist, or something else equally dreadful, all of which keeps the world in a perpetual turmoil. So pronounced has the effects of this dread malady become recently that we had thought this an opportune time to bring into being a new reform organization to be called the "Anti-Pie" party. We had delayed issuing our pronunciamento, prospectus or whatever you call it, until after Thanksgiving, for obvious reasons of a strictly personal nature, and here just in time to save us from the necessity of a great sacrifice comes this welcome intelligence from over seas. The French are a great people; they have invented a lot of things besides the French language and this latest discovery entitles them to the gratitude of mankind. From this time onward we shall raise carrots and continue to eat pie.

Editor GLENDALE NEWS.

I received several Socialist papers featuring a "Rev. Father Bowden of Kansas City." I immediately wrote the bishop's office in Kansas City and received the reply that "Bowden was a fraud." He was a solicitor for the Catholic paper there and could not make good even in so humble a position, and left Kansas City for pastures anew, and green.

MR. GRISWOLD AND THE WATER QUESTION.

In the last issue of the Tropico Sentinel, Mr. Dwight Griswold publishes an illuminating article on the water question, particularly in reference to the Consolidated Water company in which he was formerly interested. We quote his conclusions:

Under the present conditions it would be almost impossible for either Tropico or Glendale to take over a portion of the present system for a municipal plant for the pipe-lines, reserovirs, and water supply is so arranged and so complicated by various companies and ownership, that nothing but a new system and supply for either locality would do, or else a merger of all the interests into one comprehensive system that would properly supply all the territory to which the canyon water was decreed.

The latter plan appeals to me as the only right and proper one. How it can best be brought about remains to be solved.

That we have in the Verdugo Canyon an abundant supply of the purest and best of water is not a matter of guess work. We have there a supply that can be developed and distributed to supply a city much larger than Pasadena and cheaper than is the supply of any other of the smaller cities of Southern California; but these results can only be brought about by a consolidation of all the water rights in the canyon, either by purchase by the community served, or by a unifying and proper development of the interests of the present owners.

D. GRISWOLD.

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 1.—To clear from brush and weeds 7000 acres of the city, or "Pueblo" lands, and plant them to trees and lease them in small farms to the landless men of the country who yearn for a farm and a home, is the plan of the city forester, Max Watson, following the success of the exposition farm started in Balboa park to propagate the flowers for the Panama-California International exposition.

Watson was appointed city forester about a year ago. Since that time he has reclaimed hundreds of acres of a 7000-acre grant which belongs to the city of San Diego with eucalypti and other quick-growing trees, using therefor the dry farming process entirely. Trees less than a year old on this huge farm are now over eight feet high and the loss from drouth, remarkable as the statement may seem, has been absolutely nil.

San Diego county contains hundreds of thousands of acres of "mesa" lands susceptible to cultivation by dry farming methods. It is to prove this fact that Watson is working. He proposes now to utilize the labor of city and county prisoners and reclaim the entire 7000 acres of city land, plant it in trees and fruit and shrubs, hay and grain, and to make these waste lands yield a revenue to the city and county.

Watson declares that by 1915 there will be 50,000 acres of reclaimed land in this county ready for the settler who wants one, five, or ten acres that will produce either deciduous or citrus fruit, berries, grapes and vegetables, and that dry farming methods will make this land the most productive on the continent.

MRS. FRAZAR'S ART EXHIBIT.

(Contributed)

Art lovers who attended Mrs. Helen Frazar's studio teas during her opening days were charmed with the artistic arrangement of her studio and the beautiful and interesting pieces which it contains, and unite in the opinion that Glendale is indeed fortunate in having access to a studio of this class which would do credit to any city in the country. Indeed, Mrs. Frazar had her studio for years in Boston in which city she received her early training in the studio of her aunt, Mrs. H. A. Crosby, the celebrated china and water color artist.

In her aunt's home she frequently met distinguished artists, among them Bischoff, pieces of whose work she possesses in her home, and whose methods she studied. The broad method of treatment employed by Bischoff is apparent in Mrs. Frazar's work, especially in her roses and fruit for which Bischoff is renowned. Mrs. Frazar studied landscape in oil with J. Enneking, and flower painting in oil with Mrs. M. K. Baker, the well-known flower painter in oil of Boston. She also studied with Kallowhill, the famous artist in paste work and gold luster. Having had such excellent advantages it is not surprising that Mrs. Frazar's work possesses a superior artistic quality. She employs both the conventional and realistic methods and does a variety of styles including the conventional Dresden style of acid work in gold relief, and the new flat enamel.

Mrs. Frazar has displayed among her work in her studio many artistic and beautiful pieces of china and also water color landscapes, while she also posseses an unusually interesting collection of curious old china and furniture including a quaint and charming old piano which recalls the days of Mozart, a flax wheel of revolutionary times, some old-time mirrors and handsome mahogany tables. Those who were unable to visit this studio during the opening days will be welcome at any time.

ONE WAY TO CREATE A PANIC.

In a recent number of the Outlook, an article by Earl Mayo, on typhoid and tuberculosis, the public's responsibility, furnishes a most remarkable reason for the recent cases of typhoid fever in various parts of New York City. It seems that the health board found, upon inquiry, that the milk supply of the infected households came from one company, to which consignments had been shipped from a certain town in the northern part of the state, where a peculiar disease had been prevalent for a number of years. The learned physicians decided that the disease was typhoid fever, although it passed for something else.

The next link in the extraordinary chain of evidence was the discovery of a dairy farmer who after selling milk to the local trade, was in the habit of sending the surplus to New York.

And the dairy farmer had had an attack of typhoid fever FORTY-SEVEN YEARS BEFORE.

"During all of the intervening period," says the writer in the Outlook, "the bacilli probably had been present in the system and he had been spreading the disease." The weakest spot in the testimony is the word "probably." But the article insists that the case was fully investigated and the man is classed as a "typhoid carrier."

Sherlock Holmes fades into insignificance when one considers the brilliant record of the New York health department. It may be sacriligious to cast a doubt upon the conclusions of that august body, but:

Why these hair-splitting deductions Why this unusual activity at the present time? And why this epidemic, through the entire country, of magazine and newspaper proclamations of the efficiency of state and government doctors?

The reports would undoubtedly be more generally accepted, but for the fact that the American Medical Association and its allies appear to be overzealous. They are after a "National Bureau of Health."—Journal of Osteopathy, Oct., 1911.

Exciting Motor Races.

At least five hundred people witnessed the motorcycle races held in this city yesterday. Charles Tobey, of Pasadena, finished first in each of the events, but in the twin race he was disqalified on account of changing machines in the one event. In the twin and free-for-all races the winner maintained a speed of nearly fifty miles an hour for the entire distance, while the single machines travelled about forty-five miles an hour in the first event. Leo Goode had three spills, two in the twin race and one in the free-for-all, while Tobey fell once, this being in the free-for-all.

The result of the races are as follows:

First race, single cylinder machines—First, Tobey, Pasadena, (Flying Merkle); second, William Reamer, Glendale, (Indian). Distance, 16 miles. Prizes—first, tire; second, $2.

Second race, twin cylinder machines—First, Guy Pettit, Glendale, (Indian); second, Tobey, Pasadena, (Flying Merkle). Distance, 24 miles. Prizes—first, $5, second $3.

Third race, free-for-all—First, Tobey, Pasadena, (Twin Flying Merkle); second, Leo Goode, Glendale, (Twin Indian); third, Rufus Hammond, Glendale, (Single Harley-Davidson). Distance, 35 miles. Prizes—First loving cup; second, $3; third, $2.

THANKSGIVING ODE.

Think not to find a better land,
Than this fair land in which we dwell;
Blessings abound on every hand,
More numerous than we can tell.

No Czar or King his wants make known,
No cringing sycophants obey;
We bend the knee to God alone
On this, our glad Thanksgiving day.

"Land of the free." Fair Heritage!
Blessed land, wherein the people rule;
Two powers our future good presage—
The Bible, and the public school.

Land where the starry banner waves,
Land of broad farms and happy homes,
Where the oppressed our kindness craves,
As to our shores the wanderer comes.

Land of great forests, mighty streams,
Of smiling valleys, lofty hills;
Land where the fruitful harvest teems,
Where golden grain the warehouse fills.

Land where the spring of paradise;
Breeze laden with the breath of flowers;
Land of the golden summer skies,
Land of the autumn purple bowers.

Land where the rich and generous soil
So well the husbandman repays;
Land where the fruits of harvest toil
Are garnered for the winter days.

From coast to coast, from gulf to lake,
To higher planes the Truth had led;
And far off islands shall awake
To share these blessings as they spread.

Together we have met today,
To lift our hearts in gratitude
To God, and reverently say,
Praise ye the Lord, for He is good.

Yes, praise the Lord, for home and friends,
For country where the people rule,
And for each blessing that attends
The Church, the Flag and Public School.

—Samuel Parker.

BEFORE JUDGE WHOMES.

Watson B. Pitzer was brought before Recorder Whomes Tuesday night for raising a disturbance at his home on West Seventh street and in absence of local accommodations was sent to Los Angeles county jail for the night. He appeared before the court Wednesday noon and plead guilty to a charge of "Making a loud and tumultuous noise, using threatening and profane language, etc." Pitzer was fined only ten days ago on a similar charge and the court was at first disposed to give him a severe jail sentence, but when arraigned the prisoner made such apparently sincere promises to abstain from the cause of his trouble, strong drink, that the judge imposed a nominal fine of ten dollars and gave him one more chance.

POSTAL SAVINGS FOR GLENDALE.

Manager Robertson of the local branch of the Los Angeles postoffice in Glendale has received savings cards and stamps which are on sale at the postoffice to all who wish to establish savings accounts, which can be done at the main office in Los Angeles. The local arrangement is especially intended for persons wishing to start an account in any amount under one dollar. The cards sell for ten cents and on every card are spaces for nine ten cent stamps, every card when fully stamped representing one dollar, which will be received at the main office on deposit upon which the government pays two per cent interest.

NEW DIRECTORY.

The directory of Glendale and vicinity just completed by the Southern California Directory Co., which their representative, Mr. Pierson, has been working on for three months or so, is being delivered to subscribers. The work is a very fine one, the publishers having spared no expense to make it not only complete in every detail, but to ornament it as well with a number of cuts typical of this section of the valley. It is a valuable work, well worth the price, two dollars a copy.

Mrs. W. M. Johnson arrived in Glendale Friday last from Durango, Colo., where she and her husband and son have been located for the past two years. She will be the guest during the winter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Johnson and will be joined later by her husband and son.

Southern Pacific Boosts California as Home State.

"California has room for every man who will work."

"Charley" Fee, Californian first and passenger traffic manager of the Southern Pacific railroad company second, thus summarized the state of California in a recent conversation with a group of business men of the state. Advancement of the interests of the land of sunshine and dollars to the pinnacle among the other states of the nation to which she is properly entitled was the subject that had brought the men together.

"Development of the community spirit among the people of the state until they present one solid front is needed to secure the best results," said Mr. Fee, "and that is what we all must strive to bring about. We men of the Southern Pacific have learned, as have thousands of others in California, that advertising is the best way to secure men of brains and brawn, who have a little capital, to come here and settle, and we also have discovered that one of the best ways to advertise for the right sort of men is at the Land shows like those held in Chicago and Omaha.

"The results obtained at these expositions last year are sending us back there this fall, and we want to take California with us. Not as she went last year, in scattered communities, but as a united state. We have proved the results to be obtained, now we intend to reap the harvest, and California will reap it with us. The railroad will be represented with lecture halls, where we will set forth by lecturers an by movi picture and stereopticon the advantages to be gained from a residence here.

Psychological Time Is at Hand.

"The people of California and the men of the Southern Pacific have had their misunderstandings in the past. Some of our moves have been criticised, but time has shown that what was done was for the permanent good of the state. To-day, I am glad to say that there is a better spirit shown on both sides. Now is the psychological time to get together for the interests of all.

"I am a Californian first and a Southern Pacific man second. My home is here; and it is highly gratifying to me that Californians are coming to a realization of the fact that the Southern Pacific has the state's best interests at heart. California has produced the greatest railroad men in the world. She has sent them to the East and other parts of the West, and they have made good wherever they have gone. They have built roads where other men have said roads could not be built.

First to Search World for Men.

"Our railroad was the first to send its agents to Europe to seek out the best men and bring them to California to make their homes. We brought winegrowers that planted vineyards and helped build up the great grape industry of the state. We brought fruit growers and other tillers of the soil.

"A conservative estimate of the number of families we have brought into California is over 250,000," said Mr. Fee. "Government statistics show that each family is worth $5,000 to the commonwealth in which it resides. That means that we have added from this source alone $750,000,000 to the state's resources, because these were permanent residents.

Railroad Increases Land Values.

"There are in this state millions of acres of land that will grow just as bountiful crops as any land in the state, but there is lack of people to thoroughly till the soil. The lands of California that to-day are worth as high as $1,000 an acre were not worth more than $5 a comparatively few years ago. It is the railroads and the speedy transportation that they give, together with increasing population, that have increased their value. The people of California are coming to realize that this is true, and that the partnership that exists between its people and its railroads is really a close one, and that co-operation is needed to obtain the best results.

"When the double tracking now being done by the Southern Pacific railroad is completed we will have the longest stretch of double track of any railroad in the world," continued Mr. Fee, "and it will give to California practically express service for all their freight to the east. Our lines in the state radiate in many directions, and we are thus enabled to bring the furthermost parts of the commonwealth into close to with the great markets not only of California but of the east and the world.

"Therefore it is up to all of us Californians, whether railroad men, merchants, manufacturers, horticulturists or farmers, to get together. We must establish this community spirit that already is securing a hold, and we must establish it so firmly that nothing can disrupt it.

Community Spirit Was Lacking.

"At the last land show in Chicago California was not adequately represented because the state as a whole had not awakened to the significance of such exhibitions. Many counties had exhibits and mighty fine ones, but there was no spirit of unity. And yet on California day the people of Chicago forced their way into the big Coliseum, where the United States Land and Irrigation Exposition was holding this exhibit and clamored for a sight of the wonderful products. It was the biggest day of the two weeks, and the carload of fruit given away was one of the best advertisements the state ever had.

"When the Southern Pacific saw that the movement to tell that part of the East what California was doing had not taken hold as it should we turned in to remedy it by undertaking to cement the whole state display with a general exhibit supported by lectures on California illustrated by stereopticon slides and motion pictures. True, that was a big advertisement for the Southern Pacific, but it was a bigger one for the state.

"This year the manner of exhibiting should be changed. We want the state as a whole to come in. We want every town and every community from Del Norte to San Diego to come with us. If those who take exhibit space will send their exhibits to me I will see that they are carried free of all charges to Chicago. We would like to do more, but cannot because of the restrictions of the interstate commerce law.

"It makes no difference whether these exhibits come from communities along our line or not we will handle them free. We are for the state as a whole and we want to see it prosper.

Interests Same as Those of State.

"There is a very natural reason for this. Our interests are identical with those of every person in the state. In the prosperity of California and Californians lies our prosperity. Of course we increase our business, but it is only by increasing the business of the people of California that we can increase ours. Our property is here just as is that of other men and women. Many of our stockholders live here. We want all California to prosper because we are Californians. The man who owns a two-room cottage and makes his home there with his family is no more interested than we, for we pay taxes just as he does, so it is only natural that we want the state to prosper.

"We have for years been actively furthering the interests of California by far-reaching advertising campaigns throughout the East and abroad. Millions of pieces of literature have been placed in the hands of interested people and thousands of pictures have been hung in conspicuous places throughout the country. Photographs are printed in great numbers for use in illustrating special articles about California. We are at the present time supplementing and emphasizing our other advertising work by keeping a corps of lecturers constantly in the field. Such special occasions as these offer communities along our line a splendid opportunity to gather up the results of the work we have done and the interest we have aroused. I cannot too strongly urge the fact that every community wanting new residents and hastened development should have specific and energetic representation at the Chicago Land Show.

"Let us get together, pool our resources and tell the world in convincing fashion what we have. Our lecture halls at the land show will be thrown open to California communities free of all cost. Back your lecturers up with moving picture films and stereopticon views and you will be surprised at the results. Last year 77,000 persons heard our lectures. This year 100,000 will listen.

"Every business man in California should have on his stationery the line 'California has room for the man who will work.' Make that our slogan and pound it into every man we can reach. Then get together with the Southern Pacific and show what team work between real Californians can do and we will people the state with men and women that will be a credit to us, add to our own as well as their wealth and help boost California to the topmost round on the ladder of success.

CEMENT PRODUCTION BREAKS RECORD.

Statement of United States Geological Survey Shows Phenomenal Growth of Industry.

Ten years ago the production of Portland cement for the first time passed the 10,000,000-barrel mark, showing an increase of 2600 per cent over the production of 10 years previous, and the giant strides that had been made in the industry were widely remarked. Even this production was small compared with that of the present day. In 1910, according to the report on cement by Ernest F. Burchard, of the United States Geological Survey, the production of Portland cement reached the enormous total of 76,549,951 barrels, with a value of $68,205,800. This is equivalent to 12,986,152 long tons, valued at $5.25 a ton. It is an increase over the output for 1909 of 11,558,520 barrels, or nearly 18 per cent, and an increase in value of $15,347,446, or more than 29 per cent. This increase alone is greater than the toal output of Portland cement in 1900. In addition to Portland cement there was also produced last year 1,139,239 barrels of natural cement and 95,951 barrels of puzzolan cement, a total of 77,785,141 barrels.

The reduction in price is remarkable. In 1880 it was $3.00 a barrel; in 1890, $2.09; in 1900, $1.09, and in 1910 the average was 89 cents.

The production last year was over 75,000,000 barrels, of which only 2,475,957 was exported; while there were imported only 306,863 barrels.

Nerves of Genius.

Many of the men whose names we revere today in science, art, literature and poetry suffered from emotional disturbances, resulting in nerve storms or outbursts of mental violence, which can only be described as superacute mania. The poet Cowper had strong suicidal tendencies, yet he wrote "John Gilpin" when suffering from intense melancholia. Shelley had an insane ancestry, and at Eton he was called "Mad Shelley." Charles Lamb had to be placed in an asylum, and his sister Mary stabbed her mother to the heart while insane. Wordsworth and his sister Dorothy are almost a parallel to Charles and Mary Lamb. At the age of thirty Coleridge was broken down, and he died a wreck at sixty-two. Southey came of an insane stock. The mother of Richard Brinsley Sheridan, the dramatist, died demented at forty-two. Pope was deformed and rickety, and Keats was neuropathic to his finger tips. Byron's mother was unbalanced, and so was his maternal grandfather.—London Globe.

Value of Deep Breathing.

Writing on the cultivation of physical fitness in the Herald of the Golden Age, Eustace Miles says that those who have mastered the art of deep and full breathing are thereby enabled to master their emotions—they can overcome pain and secure control of the mind and of the circulation of the blood. The control of the breathing prevents one from becoming hurried and flurried, and one acts leisurely, although not lazily. Breathing can be adapted to various needs—for instance, in producing warmth or the opposite effect—or one can breathe in order to become more sensitive. In fact, the all round value of deep and full breathing cannot be overestimated. Of all physical practices this is the first and foremost and one that can be regulated without being in the least conspicuous. If you have learned how to breathe deeply and fully people may not suspect it—they only notice that you are calm, poised and good tempered.

He Had Told It.

Next to Joseph Chamberlain, Birmingham honors no citizen more than Jesse Collings. In politics and friendship Mr. Chamberlain and Mr. Collings have been inseparable for many years. They even shared their platform anecdotes, and in regard to one story they arranged that when both were taking part in a meeting the first speaker was entitled to its use.

It so happened that Mr. Collings arrived late at a meeting one night, but was due to speak before Mr. Chamberlain. As he was launching out into the story he felt his coattail pulled, and a voice behind him whispered, "I've told it." So Mr. Collings desisted, but what was his surprise to hear Mr. Chamberlain tell the story as soon as he got on his legs. "I thought you said you told it?" he asked afterward. "So I had," replied the imperturbable Joe, "but not tonight."—Pall Mall Gazette.

A Legend About Cats.

The ancient Greeks thought that all creatures except cats had souls and that that animal lost its soul through a bargain made between a bridge architect and the devil. The architect had besought the devil to get help in constructing an exceedingly dangerous bridge structure, and his satanic majesty only consented to lend aid on condition that the first creature to cross it should lose its soul. This was agreed upon, the bridge finished in due time and the devil sent to the opposite side to await his prey. The shrewd architect took good care to send a cat over before any human being was allowed to cross. On learning of the bargain the cat recrossed the bridge and scratched the architect's eyes out.

An Elemental Error.

A judge was angling in the Manitowick waters and just after dinner became involved in an argument with his boat companion. The debate lasted some minutes, and during that time the judge had his baited hook dangling in the air over his shoulder.

The guide took a hand.

"Judge," said he peremptorily, "drop your line in the water. There are no flying fish around here."—Chicago Post.

A Rich One.

The Visitor—And what are you going to make of him?

Mamma—I want him to be a philanthropist.

"Why, there's no money in that."

"But all the philanthropists have been very rich."

A Reminder.

Dearborn—What have you got that string tied about your finger for? Wabash—Oh, I've been getting married, and my wife doesn't want me to forget it.—Boston Herald.

Its Sort.

"Did Jerry ever tell you the time when he made his opponents bottle up their wrath?"

"Yes; it's a corking story."—Baltimore American.

Not In Use There.

"For a college graduate you don't seem to know such horsy slang."

"Sir, I am a graduate of a college of veterinary surgery."—Chicago Tribune.

Turn About.

Stella—When you are engaged you tell him that he must economize. Bella—And after you are married he tells you that you must.—Puck.

The best government is that which teaches us to govern ourselves.

Fore Foot of a Horse.

"It's a funny thing," said the old animal trainer, "but you can't train a horse to walk on his fore feet because he ain't built that way. Take the dog or cat animals and they'll not only walk on their fore feet, but they will go up and down stairs with their hind legs in the air. It's a little harder to teach than walking on the hind feet, but it is merely a matter of patience and of knowing how, but get a horse off his hind legs and you have a lame horse. Dozens of trainers have spelled from one to twenty horses apiece trying for the trick, but the nearest any one ever came to it was an English trainer who had a jackass that could stay up for a little while, but even the Jack was strained and soon had to be destroyed. Horses taken into upstairs theaters will go up the steps as agile as cats, but when they come down they have to be backed down. That's one reason why horses used in hill work break down so quickly. It's not the long, hard pull uphill; it's the holding back going down."—New York Sun.

The Garden of Eden.

In some of his lectures Professor Robert W. Rogers of Drew Theological seminary expressed his opinion on the location of the garden of Eden. He thinks that the garden of Eden was somewhere in the region lying between the rivers Tigris and Euphrates. In an address before the Harlem branch of the Y. M. C. A. some years ago he said:

"When the search for the holy grail ceased in the middle ages the human mind took up the problem of the location of the garden of Eden. This has been put in many places—Armenia, Utopia, Atalantis (the prehistoric continent) and equatorial Africa. Christopher Columbus thought that Venezuela was the place, and because there is an Adam's peak on the island of Ceylon others have put the garden there. It has also been found in Palestine and at the north pole."

Immense Cost of Roman Feasts.

The amount of money often expended by the wealthy Romans on their sumptuous meals appears fabulous. Vitellius is said to have spent as much as 404 sestertia (about £4,228 of English money) on his daily supper, and the celebrated feast to which he invited his brother cost no less than £40,350. It consisted of 2,000 different dishes of fish and 7,000 of fowls, with other equally numerous meats. His daily food was of the most rare and exquisite nature. The deserts of Lybia, the shores of Spain, the waters of the Carpathian sea and even the coasts and forests of Britain were diligently searched for dainties to supply his table, and had he reigned long he would, observes Josephus, have exhausted the great opulence of the Roman empire.—London Standard.

Must Have Tired His Jaws.

It might be well for those who adopt the one meal a day system to become chewers at the same time. A chewer, according to dietetic experts, is one who chews all things so long as they have any taste left in them. Gladstone, it is recorded, used to take thirty-two bites to every mouthful of food. This would be considered dangerously rapid eating by the modern school of chewers. "I have tried chewing conscientiously," writes Eustace Miles. "A banana has cost 800 bites, a small mouthful of bread and cheese 240 bites, a greedy mouthful of biscuit (while I was walking on a Yorkshire moor) more than a thousand bites. It still seemed to taste about as much as at first, but I knew that taste by then, so I swallowed."—London Chronicle.

Problem In Gain and Loss.

A well known physician of Chicago was attending old Pat, a faithful janitor, but a querulous patient.

"Och, doctor, ye said Thursday would bring ye again, and here it is Friday."

"Today's Thursday, Pat."

"Friday, doctor."

"Mistaken, Pat."

"Sure, I'll ask my daughter. Mary Ann, what day would it be?'

"Doctor's right, father. It's Thursday."

"Och, now, is it, then? I ask your pardon, doctor. But since it's Thursday when I thought it was Friday was I gainin' a day or losin' six? Hould on, I know, doctor; 'tis accordin' to whither this is last week or nixt."—Housekeeper.

The Last Dueling Clergymen.

"When did clergymen cease to fight duels?" is a startling inquiry in London Notes and Queries. It will be news to many of us that they were ever fond of that exhilarating pastime. But, as a matter of fact, the Rev. Mr. Allan fought a duel with Lloyd Delany, Esq., and killed him in Hyde park in 1782. He was convicted of manslaughter and fined 1 shilling plus six months in Newgate.

Not a Joke.

Giles—Take two letters from money and one will be left.

Miles—Is that a joke?

"Yes."

"Well, I know of a fellow who took money from two letters and it was no joke. He got twelve months in jail."

Not the Same.

Tess—He said I looked handsome in that gown, didn't he? Jess—Not exactly. He said that gown looked handsome on you.—Exchange.

Value Altered by Conditions.

Silence may be golden in the case of the burglar, but it is not of any special value to an insurance agent.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Geographical Puzzles.

"There are lots of puzzles to geography," said the geographer.

"Why, for instance, has the northern part of most countries got a reputation for being harder headed and more businesslike than the south? The Scotsman and the Yorkshireman we know. France has their counterpart in the Norman, who is distinguished for his phlegm, his energy and his business qualities, and rather pities the lazier and more hot headed south. Similarly the Prussian is the Scotsman of Germany. Northern Italy is a hive of industry, and the man from Milan regards his compatriot from Naples as a lazy and tractious child. And it always is really so, but why?

"And why, when a city stands on a river, is the northern half always far more important than the southern? Look at London, Glasgow, Newcastle, Bristol and Liverpool. The great streets and business and fashion and theater districts are always on the north bank.

"Why, too, have all the great migrations in the world's history gone westward and none east?"—London Answers.

Reasons For Pride.

There was present at a certain big dinner in England many years ago an American woman of prominence who was somewhat annoyed by a tactless Englishwoman who undertook to banter her and who said:

"I take it for granted that you have no coats of arms in your new country."

"Of course no American family could have one unless it was borrowed from English ancestry," replied the former American.

"For instance, has your family any especial cause for pride over your grandfather?" persisted this particularly tactless female cad.

Then the American woman opened up and replied as calmly as possible under the circumstances, "Not much perhaps, only that my grandfather on my mother's side received Burgoyne's sword when he surrendered at Saratoga and my grandfather on my father's side received the sword of Cornwallis at Yorktown."

Dodging Mother Meng.

Infant prodigies are not unknown in China, and Chinese Buddhists find it easy to account for them, says a correspondent of the London Chronicle. According to the doctrine of the transmigration of souls, persons passing through hades on their way to the wheel of life (which relaunches souls into the bodies of babies or animals just being born) have to cross a bridge. Before mounting the bridge they are stopped by an old hag called Meng, who, ladle in hand, compels each soul to drink a mouthful of the waters of forgetfulness, for which the popular name is Mother Meng's soup. Those who drink of this forget all that they had passed through or had known in their former life and thus on being reborn into the world are entirely ignorant. Some, however, manage to dodge Mother Meng and enter the world full of knowledge, which they display as soon as they can articulate.

A Stolen Kiss.

It seems strange that because a man steals a kiss his girl should break the engagement, but that is what a Germantown clubman is telling his associates.

"Oh, she objected seriously to my stealing a kiss," he said.

"Oh, nonsense!" interrupted one of the group. "Nell is too sensible to do a thing like that."

"But she did," the other protested. "You see, she caught me stealing it from another girl, and immediately she protested that stealing was a crime of which she certainly did not approve."—Philadelphia Times.

Both Died as They Wished To.

Tennyson, who was a shy, reserved man, could never understand Robert Browning's love of society. He had been heard to remark that Browning would die in a white choker at a dinner party. The two poets died as they would have wished to die—Robert Browning in the grand Palazzo Ressonicco, with his son by his bedside, and Lord Tennyson in his beloved Surrey home, surrounded by his loved ones.

Spoiling the Game.

Bertie—I don't want to go to bed yet, ma. I want to see you and Mr. Shepherd play cards. Lucie—You wicked boy, to think we should do such a thing! We never do it! Bertie—But I heard mamma tell you to mind how you played your cards when Mr. Shepherd came.

Suspicious.

Small Nina was two years older than the baby and had come to realize that the little creeper was likely to be in some mischief when quiet. One day she called to her mother: "Mamma, you'd better see about baby. I hear him keeping still!"—Chicago News.

The Paternal Idea.

Miss Roxley—I lost my heart last night, pa. I accepted Mr. Poorman. Mr. Roxley—Huh! You didn't lose your heart. You must have lost your head.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Universal Language.

Blobbs—Do you think we shall ever have a universal language? Slobbs—We have now, when money talks.—Philadelphia Record.

There's room for everybody in this big world, but we can't all have front rooms.—Exchange.

She Was Used to Storms.

The storm burst forth in all its fury. Great trees were torn up bodily by the roots, houses were unroofed or even wrenched from their foundations, women shrieked and rushed with their children to places of fancied safety, while strong men turned pale and vainly attempted to appear unconcerned. But in the midst of all this fury of nature one little woman sat cool, calm and collected. She did not appear to notice that anything out of the ordinary was happening. Now and then she raised her eyes from the book that seemed to absorb her, glanced around the room and went back to the literary love. Afterward we learned that she was a teacher in a primary school and that she hadn't heard or felt anything she wasn't accustomed to.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Schoolroom Training.

Our schools are not training individuals. They treat the unfortunate pupils in the mass, as a dyer treats his cambric by the vatful. Society needs the power of the child, and there are almost as many kinds of power as there are children. But these powers are latent and need to be aroused by the magic of personality. We now leave their discovery to haphazard after the child has left the general schoolroom. An earnest start has been made by sincere citizens to compel educators to use the great possibilities of the public schools for the training of useful individuals. A few vocational and special schools have been opened. Some of the states, a few of the cities, have studied the problem of individualized education. By and by the state will awaken to the possibilities of training its children into diversified and honorable usefulness. Then a perennial supply of socialized useful individuals will be coming from the recreated public schools.—Samuel P. Orth in North American Review.

His Future.

Little Wimpleton had worked his courage up to boiling point. And he told the old, old story to the fair one of his heart. To his delight the maid reciprocated his affections. There was only one stumbling block, the girl's prim, proper and precise mamma, of whom little Wimpleton stood in great awe.

"I love you," said the maiden, "but you must ask mamma."

So little Wimpleton did.

"Ahem! Mrs. Doddles," he said, flushing like a beet. "I have come to inquire—I have come to ask—er—ahem!—er—what would you say to me as a son-in-law?"

"Why, Mr. Wimpleton," said the lady, "I really don't know. If you behaved yourself as you ought to I probably shouldn't say anything at all, but if you didn't—well, my dear boy, you had better marry Jane and find out by experience."—New York Journal.

Nickajack Cave.

Nickajack was once the name of an important Cherokee town on the bank of the Tennessee river. The Cherokees who had aided the British in the Revolutionary war and had been well paid for their assistance, clustered their wigwams at this point about 1790-92, and the village was known as one of the "Chickamauga towns." The meaning of the name is now lost, though it was probably of Cherokee origin, as it occurs in the annals of the tribe as a man's name. This name is also given to a creek and to a very remarkable cave, the latter being situated very near that point of the southern boundary of Tennessee where it is intersected by the line separating the states of Alabama and Georgia. Nickajack cave, though but little known, is one of the wonderful caves of the world, being of even more imposing proportions than the Mammoth cave of Kentucky.—Argonaut.

The Perfect Putterer.

The art of puttering consists of doing for yourself slowly and inefficiently what you can pay some one else to do for you quickly and well. It is hard work that you do not have to do, strenuous loafing that invites the soul. The putterer works in pure love, and if the product prove a poor thing it is at least his own. To be a perfect putterer is to achieve a liberal education. Puttering is a tonic relaxation from the mechanical efficiency of our professional selves, a corrective of the extreme specialization that otherwise would result in our becoming all foot or hand or head. The putterer makes laws and breaks laws and breaks the laws he makes. He produces startling variations from type. An inspired fool, he is a true creator.—Atlantic.

A Blind Painter.

The wonderful sixth sense supposed to be possessed by the blind is not a fable. I know a blind musician. He is a genius."

"That's not so remarkable. I know a blind painter."

"Impossible."

"Not at all. His work is perfect."

"A blind painter? His work is perfect? Why, what does he paint?"

"He paints blinds, you chump."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

London and New York.

New York will never give in the same degree as London the impression of being a real city. It is on too big or too small a scale for that; its rivers are too wide—they break the sense of continuity. At Charing Cross, with eleven miles of London in every direction, one gets a feeling of mass of immensity that is lacking in little old New York, as Manhattan is properly described.—Springfield Republican.

Not to His Liking.

"How did you enjoy your visit to your grandfather in the country, Bob?"

"Oh, it was fine, 'cept I had to wash my face and hands in raw water at the pump. I like it cooked best, like we have it at home."—Judge.

Continental Currency.

Continental currency notes were in July, 1780, worth 2 cents on the dollar, and it took a "wagon load of currency to buy a wagon load of provisions."

Wedding Venice to the Sea.

By dropping a ring into the ocean at Venice in 1177 the doge "wedded the city to the sea." The ceremony is repeated annually.

We ought to avoid the friendship of the bad and the enmity of the good.—Epictetus.

Tibetan Incense Sticks.

The most valuable incense sticks in China and those which seldom, if ever, are imported into this country are those in the manufacture of which Tibetan incense is used. These sticks are made almost exclusively for the imperial court, which requires them for all its ceremonies.

The sticks are long and thin and are never allowed to be wholly consumed by the court. They are carefully extinguished when about three inches remain. These remnants are either sold or given by court officials to friends or foreign visitors. The cheapest variety of the Tibetan incense stick comes in thin sticks of great length and costs from 2½ to 5 cents a stick. The larger and more costly sticks range in value from $1 to $2. The Chinese have a tradition or a theory that the smoke from one of these costly Tibetan sticks, if the genuine Tibetan incense has been used, will rise to a great height without being affected by the wind, no matter how strongly it may be blowing.—New York Herald.

Africa's Gold Coast.

The Gold Coast is a British colony on the west coast of Africa. Its climate is notoriously unhealthy, the heat and moisture being excessive; the coast is lined with unhealthy swamps and shallow lakes, while the peculiar rock of the country is said to give off, under the influence of the air and moisture, large quantities of hydrogen gas. The native towns are crowded and dirty, intermittent fevers and other diseases being always present. These are peculiarly fatal to Europeans, though the natives do not suffer so much. The whole region is more or less a gold producing country, but at present the value of the territory is chiefly due to the profusion of vegetable products supplied by the rich soil. Cocoanut and palm oil, bread fruit, Indian corn, yams, sweet potatoes, limes and oranges are only some out of many other valuable productions of this territory. The principal exports are gold dust and palm oil.

Some Mysteries of Dress.

We have wondered at the popularity of the fez in the east in spite of its apparent unsuitability to eastern suns. Sir Charles Eliot has some observations which are in point. "Dress in the east is a matter determined by rank or race and is not affected by such trifles as climate or temperature. Some people think it proper to go about almost naked, others bury themselves under a mountain of clothes, but all would scorn the idea of putting on an overcoat because it was cold or leaving off a fur lined robe because the thermometer was at 90 degrees in the shade." These remarks are made in connection with the Bulgarian women's gala costume—white linen gown with woolen embroidery on skirt and sleeve, various sleeveless garments over this and above all a thick quilted jacket and voluminous sash. In all this they will perform the national dance throughout a blazing afternoon. —Pall Mall Gazette.

Changed His Mind.

A southern senator was alone in his office one morning when a middle aged woman entered, bringing with her a wild gleam in her eye.

"Can you lend me $20?" she asked, calling the senator by name.

"I'm sorry," replied the lawmaker, "but I'm afraid I can't this morning. I'm pretty hard up."

The visitor fidgeted in the chair which she had taken without invitation. "I need $20 very badly," she continued. "In fact, I've just escaped from a lunatic asylum." The gleam in her eye got wilder, and she began to wave her hand bag in long swinging motion before her. "I just got out yesterday," she said.

"That being the case," concluded the senator somewhat hastily, "here's the twenty."—Washington Star.

The Absentminded Record.

Duluth is the home of a woman who is the line of absentmindedness has the whole world beaten to a finish. She is absentminded from the time she wakes up until the moment she goes to sleep.

"Emily," a friend asked her on one occasion, "how old was your mother when she died?"

"I don't know," replied Emily sweetly. "You know she died long before I was born."—Popular Magazine.

Life's Crucible.

It was said of Diderot that in his invariable optimism he was like one of the old alchemists, who always found gold in his crucible because he had first put it there. That is what the instructed soul learns to do, for life consists always of what we put into it.

Hard Hearted.

"Poor Bickers has a very hard hearted wife," said Trivvet.

"What's the trouble now?" asked Dicer.

"She not only broke the broomstick over his head, but made him go to the store and buy another."

Nature.

Nature paints the best part of the picture, carves the best part of the statue, builds the best part of the house and speaks the best part of the oration. —Emerson.

Marine Yarn.

Flipper—And how did your boat come to be wrecked? Skipper—Well, you see, she was making so many knots the crew wasn't able to unravel them.

He that loses his conscience has nothing left that is worth keeping.—Proverb.

GOT IT "BAD" ALREADY.

Samuel Parker, late of Chicago, but who is now living with his son, Ezra F. Parker, of Glendale, in a letter to the Henry (Illinois) Republican says:

"I have been here now nearly a month. Isn't it about time to rave over this 'glorious climate?' It is timely to do so, as I move out of the summer heat, into the shade, holding the paper from which I read of snow 6 to 18 inches deep, of killing frosts and zero weather in the Middle West while here are flowers in great variety in full bloom. Crysanthemums big as a cabbage head, geraniums growing like a tree (bush) and blooming all the year round. Roses and carnations galore. Climbers cover the verandas and roofs with profuse and gorgeous colorings, while grapes, oranges and figs are too common to be in common use, but enough for this time."

Allen Davenport of Glendale avenue has been on the sick list for the past few days, but is slowly recovering.

The small child of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Pettit of Cypress avenue, is slowly recovering from a severe case of blood poisoning.

Mrs. H. P. Kinne, who is passing the winter in Southern California, was the house guest recently of Mr. and Mrs. D. Jenison of Gardena avenue.

The business section of the city of Tropico has been supplied with fire hydrants. The work was done under the supervision of Trustee Webster.

The date for filing the complaint in the matter of opening Brand boulevard has been postponed by the trustees. What's the hurry—we have 50 years yet.

After a visit of several weeks with friends and relatives at this place, Mrs. Ella W. Richardson, formerly of Tropico, has returned to her home in Palo Alto.

A. P. Mason has opened a lunch room in the new Gabaig block on San Fernando road. The establishment will conduct a delicatessen department The room was opened Monday.

At a recent meeting Edward M. Lynch, city surveyor of Tropico, reported that the estimated cost of an electric lighting plant was $20,000, and resolutions of intention to construct same were adopted.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Augustus of Turon, Kas., who recently purchased a home in the Cushing tract on Glendale avenue, has taken possession of the place and expect to remain here permanently.

On December 8th, a sale of Christmas articles will be held in the parlors of the Presbyterian church by the Baraca and Philathea classes of the Sunday school. In the evening a good program will be held and a general good time furnished.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph S. Robinson expect to move their household goods to Burbank the latter part of this week or the first of next week. Mr. Robinson has recovered sufficiently to be about again. The people of this valley and the NEWS are exceedingly glad to hear of his speedy recovery.

Central avenue is beginning to look like a real up-to-date street at last. The eastern side of the thoroughfare has been completed and work is being rushed on the west side. At this time this west side is torn up and is being oiled, rolled and tamped. The work will doubtless be completed within two weeks.

There are three proposals for the location of the new Tropico postoffice. They are as follows: Corner Brand boulevard and Tropico avenue, a room in the Gabaig block, and in a building erected at the present location of the Tropico meat market. These proposals have been sent to Washington for adoption or rejection.

The announcement has been made that Miss Ethel Reynolds of Central avenue, and Browne Mentell of San Diego, will be married at the home of the bride on Christmas night. The wedding will be a fitting climax to a romance which started in San Diego several years ago. An account of the wedding will appear in the NEWS later.

There will be the usual services at the Methodist church at the corner of Palmer and Central avenues next Sunday. Preaching at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. The theme for the morning sermon will be "The All-Suffering of the Gospel;" while the evening subject will be "Lord I will follow Thee—But." A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend. Rev. S. After the dinner a musical and literary program will be given by local talent and promises to be of unusual interest. The affair will be given for the benefit of the club house fund. An invitation is extended to all to attend and help in this good cause.

QUIET STILL REIGNS.

Thus far in the consolidation fight everything has been quiet and peaceful—looking on from the outside. Of course, there are the usual morning confabs in the stations as those journeying to Los Angeles are waiting for the cars, but there has been no loss of life—or hair, for please remember, the ladies have something to say this time. We understand that several consolidation meetings have been held by the ladies living in the region of Glendale avenue, and these meetings have been more like tea parties than consolidation gatherings. There has been nothing worse than a "stony stare." The leaders of the contesting sides are on unusually good terms, too. There will probably appear the announcement in the very near future of a lovefeast to be held on the eve of the election, or maybe the antagonists will relieve their feelings by the afternoon social call route. But, laying all jokes aside, gentlemen, it is really gratifying to see, for once, a fight of this nature and caliber in Tropico where every one is considerate of the other fellow's feelings—for, you know, he has some. Let the good work continue.

WEST GLENDALE

Mr. Stafford and family have moved from 1220 West Seventh street to 1551 Viné street.

The McDonald property, corner of Oak and Columbus, has been sold to Los Angeles parties.

Mr. L. Ryder of Peoria, Ill., was visitor Tuesday last at the home of Mrs. Anna Strausser, Oak Drive.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Rising are happy over the arrival of a baby daughter last Monday at their home, 1529 West Seventh.

Mr. George Clayer has sold his home, 1124 West Tenth street, to Mr. Smith of Los Angeles who will soon occupy the property.

Mr. J. P. Moore of Pacific avenue who recently opened a general store there will remove his stock to Boyle Heights, Los Angeles, in a few days.

It is understood that Mr. E. D. Goode is making good progress in securing rights of way and working up other details for the extension of the Eagle Rock and Glendale railroad from its present terminus at Brand boulevard to Griffith Park.

A long needed and therefore welcome improvement is being made by the Consolidated Water company which is laying a new six-inch wrought iron water main on Sixth street from the San Fernando road. It is hoped that this is the beginning of a great improvement in the water distributing system of this section.

BAZAAR AND CHICKEN PIE SUPPER.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Baptist church will hold a bazaar in the store room recently occupied by the Miradero Pharmacy on Brand boulevard, between Third and Fourth, Friday afternoon and evening, Dec. 8. Fancy and useful articles will be for sale, many of which would make good Christmas presents. Admission to the bazaar will be free.

A chicken pie supper will be given in connection with the bazaar from 5 o'clock until all are served, for 35 cents; children under ten, twenty-five. Everybody is invited.

MRS. F. E. ALBRIGHT ENTERTAINS

Last Saturday afternoon at her home on Orange street, Mrs. Frank E. Albright entertained the officers of Glen Eyrie Chapter Eastern Star in a delightfully informal manner that was highly enjoyable. Among other features indulged in for the pastime of the company was a guessing contest, an observation party, in which prizes were given to Miss May Fanset, Mrs. G. U. Moyse, and Mrs. Deacon. The dining room was attractively decorated for the enjoyment of the refreshments. There were about 30 guests present.

THE WEATHER.

The heaviest frost of the season occurred Wednesday morning when tender foliaged plants on the low grounds were cut down and slightly nipped in the higher altitudes. It is entirely seasonable although there are occasional winters when less damage is done. The lowest temperature reported is 34 degrees.

Power of a Picture.

We gazed at the famous picture of "The Doctor" in silence that could be felt, and I tell you it fairly made me hold my breath and a lump come in my throat as I looked first at the suffering child and then at the kind doctor, with his grave face, and then at the father and mother in the background, and, as for Smart, I don't mind telling you I saw the water in his eyes, and presently a great big tear rolled down his cheek as he said:

"Isn't that wonderful? I suppose as a tailor I should be looking at the style of the M. D.'s clothes; but, man, I'm human, and when there is a picture that appeals like that to the great heart of humanity, why, I just forget all about my trade and think only of my humanity. Come on," he added. "I can't stay longer to look at that, for it reminds me too much of a little one I lost. Here you are," he said—"here's something more in our line. Dr. Johnson waiting for an audience with Lord Chesterfield. Here's comedy, if you like. And now we may examine the clothes."—London Tailor and Cutter.

A Picture of Ibsen.

In Schurmann's "Secrets de Confesses" is a picture of Ibsen at the summit of his fame. When Ibsen had completed a new play the Copenhagen newspapers announced the event with a great flourish of trumpets, and added: "The master will deposit his manuscript at the National theater at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning." At that hour the road between Ibsen's house and the theater was lined with people. The great man appeared with his precious roll of paper neatly tied up. As it slipped through into the letter box the public gave a great shout. The philosopher acknowledged the demonstration with a grave bow and retired within doors with the consciousness of having performed a glorious mission. Every one of his ordinary acts in public was accompanied by something of the sort, and even when he sat the curtains of the window were drawn aside so that his features might be visible to his admirers outside.

"THE WEDDING DAY,"

At the Grand Opera House.

Another unusually high-class musical opera will be made by Ferris Hartman when he produces "The Wedding Day." The initial presentation of "The Wedding Day" which will come on Sunday with the matinee, will mark the premier of this tuneful operetta in Los Angeles. It was originally written for the great star triumvirate, Lillian Russell, Della Fox and Jefferson de Angelis, and served them with great success for several seasons. "The Wedding Day' was one of the really substantial New York successes of the well-remembered Jeff de Angelis Company. The music is exceptionally tuneful and was written by Julian Edwards, to especially fit the three stars. Unlike the vehicle of a single star, "The Wedding Day" has six big solo members in it, each one of which is worthy the effort of a star. "The Wedding Day" is in three acts, the scenes of which are laid in and near Paris, about the middle of the fifteenth century. This allows ample opportunity for the picturesque and colorful stage settings and costumes.

IMPROVEMENT OF NATIONAL PARKS.

The News is in receipt of a letter from the Interior Department, setting forth plans for the extension of roads and trails in the national parks, and for various other expenditures for their upkeep, which will be appreciated by those who visit them. The sum to be expended during the eyar amounts to $381,620, of which $274,000 goes to the Yosemite National Park, $89,000 to Sequoia Park, and $17,250 to General Grant Park.

ANOTHER THEATER FOR GLENDALE.

Mr. Busch, proprietor of the Glendale theater in the Anderson building on Fourth street, has leased the rooms vacated recently by the Gregg Hardware Company on Brand boulevard and will in a few days open another place of entertainment there.

The NEWS is indebted to Mr. L. Cheever for an invitation to visit the second annual exhibition of the California Art Club, which is attracting the attention of art lovers in Los Angeles and vicinity. Mr. Cheever and Mr. Eugene C. Frank are among the artists represented at the exhibition.

We emphasize the high quality of the materials sold here, because we believe it to your benefit to use them. Make sure of your building by buying your materials here. If any chances are to be taken let them be by some one else.

The Marlin Model 20
REPEATING RIFLE
You can buy no better gun for target work and all small game up to 200 yards.

Without change of mechanism it handles .22 short, long or long-rifle cartridges perfectly. The deep Ballard rifling develops maximum power and accuracy and adds years to the life of rifles.
The solid top is protection from defective cartridges—prevents powder and gases from being blown back. The side ejection never lets empty shell cases spoil your hand and allows quick, accurate repeat shots. With simple take-down construction, removable action parts,—least parts of any .22—it is the quickest and easiest to clean. A great vacation rifle. Ask any gun dealer.
The 136 page Marlin catalog will help you decide what rifle best suits your individual desires. Send 3 stamps for it today.
